Hello Friend,

As a business owner, I am sure you are aware of the positive impact advertising has for your business. In addition, showing support for local, non-profit organizations helps to communicate to your existing and potential customers that you care for and invest back into your community. I would like to ask your consideration in supporting our organization by advertising in our upcoming event program. But, before I give you the sponsorship details, here is a quick look at the event.

On March 19-22, 2026 WaCPAC will be presenting What Were the Chances! written and directed by local playwright, Lizbeth Mang. This comedy tells the humorous story of Ella Kick and how she met Joseph Evans in 1990. Through lively reenactments, the play brings to life the people, moments, and unexpected twists that shaped their relationship. Every character in the cast is inspired by a real person. Together, these characters bring both joy and conflict into Ella's life as her relationship with Joseph begins to unfold. Born in 1930 in the little Italy district of Wooster, Ohio, Ella Kick is a lifelong resident of the community. She remains an active member of St. Mary's Church and is well known for her involvement and dedication to Wooster.

The show will feature local talented performers. The time of performances will be 7:00pm Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and 2:00pm on Sunday. General admission tickets are $10 each. Tickets will be available for purchase online and at the door. Performances will be held at St. Mary's School in Wooster.

The Wayne County Performing Arts Council is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing performing arts opportunities as well as family-friendly entertainment to the people of Wayne County, Ohio. Run completely by volunteers, this organization has been serving the area since 1982. Without the support of local people and organizations, WaCPAC could not do what it does. Would you please consider sponsoring this event? Sponsorship details can be found on the following page. WaCPAC is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, and any support given, including any given in the form of program ads, is tax deductible as a business expense.
